

Bata launches Insolia giving comfort, health and ... height to all women

Bata has launched its new collection of shoes with brand new technology making high heels more appealing called Insolia and was showcased in a pop up event recently held at the Bata store in MBK Center with special guest Green Atsadaporn Siri wattanakul in attendance. The uniqueness of Insolia is comfortability and durability lasting up to three times longer than the average high heel shoes whilst giving the impression of 3 cm of height gain on average. Insolia technology also has another direct health benefit as it promotes correct posture whilst walking or even in a standing position. Insolia has 10 collections that are now available at all 123 branches of Bata.
