Water defines Bangkok. The Chao Phraya River, translated as "River of Kings" and its many river ways and canals provides a fluid element that geographically links all parts of the city and emotionally connects the diverse community who call Bangkok home. With water there are no boundaries. It has the ability to cleanse, balance and heal. When infused with the ancient therapeutic traditions of Thai culture, Quan Spa allows you to surrender to the philosophy of "health through water" in mind, body and spirit.

Quan's allusion to purity and positive states of being makes it a perfect symbol of our approach to restore balance and harmony to body, mind and spirit. Private baths and Vichy Showers that aim to recreate the experience of swimming in the ocean together with our emphasis on treatments that use fresh, natural, locally sourced ingredients, will give you a new version of "spa" to experience.

The Quan spa menu offers a wide variety of treatments, from body wraps and aromatherapy massages to deep cleansing, and age intervention facials. Yet, all treatments are based around 4 concepts; there is a core menu of services that is found all at Quan spas across the region; only top line imported products are used for facials; therapies based on Thai traditional health and beauty rituals; and treatments that are based on using local, seasonal ingredients that are combined in the spa lab into sublime body scrubs and wraps. Everything in the spa menu has a health and wellness objective.

Our signature massage, 'Aroma Fusion Massage' combines aromatherapy with Swedish massage for a journey to total relaxation. It uses different oil blends at different times of the day. The age interventional facial is a high-performance anti-aging facial using Native Extract to stimulate, revive and preserve your skins natural defenses against aging. Thai massage is representative of the local culture and the 'Fresh Spice Bath' uses a mix of fresh Thai herbs and spices including kaffir lime and galangal to make this aromatic bath a deliciously local experience.
