One2car.com launches vehicle inspection service Skilled and professional automotive engineers provide service to build trust among used car buyers and sellers

May 29th 2017, Bangkok – One2car.com, the largest and most trusted website for new and used cars in Thailand and part of the iCar Asia Thailand network, has officially launched its new vehicle inspection service, which will be carried out by a certified and professional inspection team. Each team member has undergone a Vehicle Inspection Training program, providing added assurance that the inspection is being conducted in accordance with engineering standards and procedures.

Peace Chongseeha, Head of Inspection Department at one2car.com, said this service will raise confidence in the buying and selling of used cars on one2car.com's portal and build trust with customers.

"This service provides assistance to every used car buyer and seller. Buyers visiting the website to purchase a car can use this service to have the car inspected so they can make an informed decision before buying to make sure they are making a good investment. For sellers, using this service prior to listing their car for sale, will assure potential buyers of the good condition of their car", he explained.

The vehicle inspection service includes four core safety components:
• Vehicle body or frame inspection: to ensure no serious accidents or collision compromising structural safety have occurred
• Modifications inspection: to check there has been no modification in the vehicle frame and body
• Submersion inspection: to check that the vehicle has never been submerged underwater
• Fire inspection: to check that the vehicle has never been on fire

A 21-page report is provided after the inspection is completed and the results can be posted on one2car.com's website free of charge for any car using this inspection service. An inspection sticker is also available to place in front of the vehicle to confirm that a physical vehicle inspection was performed. Buyers can request this report from the sellers, thereby facilitating the transaction process.

One2car also offers additional inspection services including frame check, exterior check, paint thickness check, interior check and passenger amenities functionality check, vehicle systems functionality check with OBDII, engine and equipment check, battery check and underbody, tyre, wheel and brake check.

Pornladda Dathratwibul, iCar Asia Thailand's Country Manager said that this new service allows one2car.com to provide a comprehensive auto service as required by buyers and sellers of used cars.

"This service offers convenience and benefits both buyers and sellers, providing both parties with trust and credibility which can also help seal the deal. Most importantly, this inspection is carried out by a highly qualified inspection team, headed by an automotive engineer, armed with 20 years of experience and training in Germany with major vehicle brands and inspection training institutes, including vehicle design and modification."

"Our vehicle inspection process covers all essential areas and is conducted in accordance with high standards of engineering guidelines, which makes our service unique and exceptional from other service providers. With One2car.com's vehicle inspection service, buyers and sellers can be reassured and confident of a trustworthy service," she added.

The retail price for the vehicle inspection service at one2car.com is set at THB 2000. Depending on the various services required, there is a special promotion during the launch period from now until July 31st 2017.
